1. Can you share a bit about your journey and what inspired you to pursue both academia and modeling?

My journey has been one of dedication, growth, and transformation. As a mechanical engineering educator and a PhD pursuing professional, my passion has always been to inspire the next generation of engineers. However, stepping into the world of modeling was an unexpected yet empowering experience. It allowed me to embrace my confidence, redefine my own limits, and showcase that intellect and elegance can go hand in hand.

“Success is not about following a single path; it’s about embracing every opportunity that helps you grow.”

2. What motivated you to take the leap into the world of beauty pageants?

Participating in a beauty pageant was a leap of faith. I never envisioned myself in this field, but I saw it as an opportunity to challenge myself, celebrate my journey as an educator and a mother, and prove that intelligence and beauty are not mutually exclusive. Winning the City Winner title reinforced my belief that women can thrive in multiple domains without limitations.

“Do not be afraid to step outside your comfort zone—great things never come from staying in one place.”

3. How do you balance your academic career with your pursuits in modeling and motherhood?

Balancing these roles has been a journey of learning and growth. Time management, resilience, and prioritization have been key. I ensure that I allocate time effectively for my academic responsibilities, personal aspirations, and my family. My biggest motivation is setting an example for my children—showing them that passion and perseverance can create a fulfilling life.

“You can do anything, but not everything at once. Prioritize, stay focused, and make time for what truly matters.”

4. What challenges have you faced while managing multiple roles, and how did you overcome them?

One of the biggest challenges has been managing time while navigating societal expectations. Many believe academia and modeling are worlds apart, but I see them as complementary. Staying disciplined, believing in myself, and having a strong support system have helped me break barriers and embrace both worlds with confidence.

“Strength grows in the moments when you think you can’t go on, but you keep going anyway.”

5. How did winning the City Winner title impact your life and career?

Winning the City Winner title was a surreal and transformative moment. It not only boosted my confidence but also opened doors to new opportunities. It connected me with like-minded individuals, allowed me to explore the beauty and modeling industry further, and enriched my personal and professional journey.

“Confidence is not about being perfect—it’s about believing in yourself, even when others don’t.”

6. What message do you want to share with women who aspire to break societal norms and follow their passions?

I want every woman to know that it's never too late to explore new paths. Passion, dedication, and perseverance can break any barriers. You don't have to fit into one mold—embrace every aspect of yourself, defy stereotypes, and keep chasing your dreams with confidence.

“Be fearless in the pursuit of what sets your soul on fire.”

7. How has your journey influenced your perspective on women's empowerment?

My journey has reinforced my belief that women are capable of excelling in multiple fields. Women's empowerment is about having the courage to pursue dreams, challenge norms, and create a balance that aligns with their aspirations. We are multifaceted, and we should never be confined to societal labels.

“Empowered women empower the world.”

8. What is the most fulfilling aspect of your journey so far?

The most fulfilling aspect has been the ability to inspire others. Whether it's my students, my children, or other women who see my journey as a source of motivation, knowing that I can make a difference keeps me going.

"The true measure of success is not what you achieve for yourself, but how you inspire others to dream bigger."

9. How do you see yourself evolving in the future, both academically and in modeling?

Academically, I aim to complete my PhD and continue contributing to education. In modeling, I hope to explore more opportunities that align with my values. My goal is to keep growing, learning, and inspiring others, proving that a woman can excel in multiple spheres without compromise.

"Growth is a journey, not a destination—keep learning, keep evolving, and keep reaching new heights."

FAMEGRAM

10. What advice would you give to young women trying to balance their careers, personal lives, and ambitions?

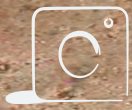

My advice is to stay persistent and believe in yourself. There will be challenges, but with determination, support, and self-confidence, you can successfully manage multiple roles. Don't let fear hold you back—take that leap of faith, and you might just surprise yourself with what you're capable of achieving.

“You are stronger than you think, braver than you believe, and capable of more than you imagine.”
